Description

We are entering a growth stage in our businesses, and growing a set of service offerings.

These include the creative problem solving skills needed to develop ideas from first insight through to testing, learning and wider adoption.

To complement our class-based experience and materials, we are developing online learning to enable virtual teams learn creative problem solving skills, and apply them to real challenges in real-time.

Part of our vision is to build a community of trained creative problem solvers.

With all of this, we are open to working with partners, clients, associates and potential employees.
